LASEA.

LASEA, Oct. 17.—Autumn is upon us in the true sense of the word and it is a beautiful sight to behold the forests now.

E. S. Fowler, Esq., was in our midst a few evenings since and made an interesting talk on free silver, and organized a club.

The ladies of this vicinity are enjoying themselves very much this lovely weather, judging from the large amount of visiting. Mrs. James Moore's was the place of meeting this last week. Mrs. Moore knows how to have a good dinner cooked, but we must say we're glad we were not the cook. The amount consumed was immense. Mr. Moore has our sympathy. Where is the next appointed place ladies?

We are sorry to note the sickness of Mrs. Joe Derryberry. Hope she'll be quite well soon.

Corn gathering and wheat sowing, is the topic of the day. The corn crop is very good in this part of the county. I guess we will have plenty of corn bread next year as corn is not but twenty cents per bushel.

Mr. Jimmie Derryberry has returned to Dickson county. I think there must be some attraction out there, as he seems to like to stay there.

Well, if this escapes the waste basket we will try and write again soon.

ROSE AND NELL.

Wanted.

One hundred thousand bushels ear corn, delivered at McLemore Mills or at any railroad station.

ENON CREEK.

ENON CREEK, Oct. 20.—Here I am again, knocking at the door of your sanctum, with a little budget of news for your interesting paper. I think every correspondent ought to adopt a rule and write every week, whether they write long letters or not, and by so doing it will help our Editor to keep up with the news while it is fresh; don't wait until the news gets old and stale and then write it up. [The Editor seconds the suggestion.]

The meeting at Manassa was of short duration; it didn't last but three days; we learn from some of the members that they will have it over soon.

Rev. T. A. Hardin preached a good discourse to his congregation at Port Royal last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mollie Hampton, of the Glenn's Store vicinity, passed through here last Sunday, going to see Mrs. E. B. Grigsby of Spring Hill, who is very sick. Mesdames Holland and Overton, of Enon, also visited Mrs. Grigsby last week. Mrs. Grigsby is a good christian lady, and has a legion of friends who are anxious to see her restored to her usual health.

Mrs. Turner and daughter Miss Ida, are in Franklin this week; we surmise that orange blossoms will be in demand soon.

Mr. C. T. Buford, Jr., went to Franklin to-day on business of importance. You couldn't stand it any longer, could you Tate?

Miss Eula Epps of Harpeth, is on a very pleasant visit to the family of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells, of this place.

Two Mormon preachers were in this community last week, but met with very poor encouragement.

GIPSY BLAIR.

GROVELAND.

GROVELAND, Oct. 20.—After several weeks absence I will again try to contribute something to the HERALD.

Rev. T. E. Hudson occupied the pulpit at Pleasant Mount last Sunday, preaching a most excellent sermon. His subject was "Heaven." He announced that he would preach twelve sermons upon this subject in the future. The congregation at Pleasant Mount has employed Mr. Hudson to preach for them next year. He has served them this year and has given perfect satisfaction.

Rev. D. E. Dortch of Columbia, preached at Zion last Sunday will preach there again the fourth Sunday in next month in the afternoon.

There is prayer-meeting at Pleasant Mount Wednesday night and Friday night of each week.

W. B. Gordon and Sam Holding, Esq., of Columbia, came out to Park's Station Saturday night and spoke upon the issues of the day and organized a Bryan, Sewall and Taylor club, with about 60 members. I hope the Democrats will keep hustling until the election and give the largest majority for the Democratic ticket that has been given for years.

The farmers are very dependent over the price of products under the gold standard. Hogs worth 2½ cents per pound; corn one dollar per barrel; wheat sixty cents per bushel; mules and horses worth about half what they ought to be.

There is a great deal of sickness in this vicinity. M. G. Rust is quite sick, and John Gifford is very low with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Magnolia Hickerson of Manchester, is visiting her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Young had the misfortune to lose their little girl. She died with fever, and was buried at the Hill Burying ground on Sunday the 11th day of October.

ROBIN.

Garwood's Sarsaparilla—for the blood

—guaranteed to cure. A. B. RAINS.

MT. ZION AND THETA.

MT. ZION, Oct. 19.—There will not be any more preaching at this place until the third Sunday in November at 3 p. m.

Revs. Sullivan and Givens held a two days meeting at Theta the 11th and 12th inst.

Rev. R. Hull and wife, of Timmons, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hull, this week.

Miss Mattie Allen, of Timmons, spent last week with Miss Lora Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Goad, have been visiting relatives at Godwin.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Oakley are spending a few days with relatives at Campbell's Station.

We enjoy reading the West Point items very much indeed though "Zula" says she has no idea who "School Girl" is. We will let her guess for a while.

I am very glad to see "Verna" back in her old place, as we enjoy reading the woman's department very much.

There was a large crowd out to hear Messrs. Fowler, Courtney and Shoup speak on free silver last Friday night.

SCHOOL GIRL.

BROADVIEW.

BROADVIEW, Oct. 20.—It is with sadness we report the death of Mr. Almon S. Dugger, who died of paralysis last Tuesday evening at his daughter's, Mrs. Watson, of Southport. The funeral services were conducted by Elder A. S. Derryberry, of Lasea, after which the remains were laid to rest in Glenwood Cemetery by the side of his wife, who preceded him just six months ago. Truly we may say that a good man has fallen, and he leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn on life's shore, but not as those that have no hope.

"When our earthly life is ended,
And our earthly mission done,
We'll go across the river
At the setting of the sun.

And in God's celestial mansion,
Clothed in garments strangely fair,
We shall meet those gone before us,
We shall know them even there."

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Dugger and little Marshall visited at Mrs. McKissick's last week.

Little Miss Mary Glibreath has been quite sick the past week with fever.

Mrs. Wm. Rea is very sick at this writing.

Rev. N. B. S. Owings preached his farewell sermon at Southport the second Sunday.

Mr. Jonathan Dugger and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Payne, of Columbia, attended the burial of Mr. Almon Dugger last Thursday.

Little Jim Barnett, of Mt. Pleasant, is visiting at his father's Mr. Jim Barnett.

Mr. T. J. W. Howard has the measles. Mr. Bishop Hubble, who lives in the edge of Giles county, died last Monday night. He was quite an old man, and served in both the Florida and Mexican wars. Interment at Gibsonville.

BRUNETTE.

A Market for Damaged Wheat.
Bring us your damaged wheat. Will pay good price for it, at the McLemore corn mill or any rail road station.

CARTER'S CREEK.

CARTER'S CREEK, Oct. 17.—Maj. and Mrs. T. E. Jamison entertained Saturday evening October 17, from seven to eleven in honor of the twenty-second anniversary of their son W. Miller Jamison, Mesdames J. T. Bauguss and J. J. Parrish assisted the hostess and right royally were their duties performed. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers. Delicious refreshments were served. Those who participated were Misses Effe and Ora Anderson, Lillian Gary, Kate McKeen, Jaquette Church, Nora Parks, Sussie Jamison, Claire and Tom Odell, Joe and Olivia Foster, Messrs. Maud McKeen, Dr. T. H. Mangrum, Eugene Foster, Walker, J. W. and J. L. Jones, Clifton Jamison, Austin Runch, Clark Anderson, Arthur Church, Porter Gary, Miller and Henry Jamison, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bauguss, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Parrish and Mr. A. E. McKeen.

Miss Maggie Mai Terrell spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

Misses Claire and Tom Odell and Mr. Miller Jamison, of Nashville, were the guests of Maj. T. E. Jamison and family the first of the week.

Elder William Anderson returned Monday morning from Campbell's Station, where he has been conducting a meeting.

Mrs. Usery, of Columbia, is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Nichols.

Mr. G. W. Nichols went to Livingston, Ala., to-day, on a prospecting trip. We had hoped Mr. Nichols would rebuild the mill at this place, as we have had a mill so long that we seem lost without it. However, if he decides not to rebuild here we feel almost certain that some one else will when the location and all of the favorable surroundings are considered.

We are sorry to report Mrs. S. B. Nichols on the sick list.

There will be preaching at Lasting Hope Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night, conducted by Rev. Gupton, of Knob Creek.

that some one else will when the location and all of the favorable surroundings are considered.

We are sorry to report Mrs. S. B. Nichols on the sick list.

There will be preaching at Lasting Hope Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night, conducted by Rev. Gupton, of Knob Creek.

Want to buy your wheat and corn shelled or in the ear at the mill or any R. R. Station.

ASHTON BROS.

WILLIAMSPORT.

WILLIAMSPORT, Oct. 21.—Learning through the columns of the HERALD that Mr. Foster is on foot again, I have become much alarmed, thinking he is around "jostling" the memory of the "drones" correspondents. He has never called "Memphis" a drone yet—so far as heard from, but "a hint to the wise is sufficient," and he may give it to me in plain language next time if I don't hustle.

Rev. E. L. Gregory preached his last sermon for this conference year last Sunday. Mr. Gregory is a good preacher and we hope to get him back.

Mrs. W. H. Johnston and children visited friends in and around the "Port" last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Thompson, of Bigbyville, and Mrs. Joe, of Franklin, are the guests of Mr. M. M. Russell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dorsett were summoned to Franklin last week to see Mr. Otey Walker, who is quite sick.

We are glad to report Mrs. Robert Moore, Jr., who has been sick for some time, able to drive out last Sunday.

Rev. S. P. Hawes preached at the Presbyterian church the second Sunday night. He received four persons into the church by letter.

Prof. Fielder's school will close Friday evening the 23rd, with an entertainment.

Mr. J. R. Walker is having a grocery department added to his store. Messrs. J. P. Choate and George Stallings will go into business in the grocery house now occupied by Mr. Walker.

Mr. Andrews, of Mt. Nebo, who had been an intense sufferer for several months, was buried at Williamsport last Tuesday. We extend to his wife and son our deepest sympathy.

We also sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Julius Howard in the loss of their little one, who died Sunday night Oct. 18.

Mrs. Kate Saunders, of Nashville, and Miss Porter, of Columbia, were the recent guests of Mrs. W. T. Porter.

MEMPHIS.

Wheat Wanted!
Farmers will find highest market prices for their wheat and corn at the office of McLemore Milling Co. Grain bought in any amount, on cars or in wagons.

A Curious Rose Tree.

One of the most remarkable botanical curiosities in the world is in the possession of Mrs. Le Clerc of Quebec. It is a potted American Beauty rosebush whose flowers have perfume only from midnight until daylight. During the rest of the 24 hours they are perfectly odorless. The fragrance begins to exhale precisely on the stroke of 12.

Finally Got the Goat.

A Berlin physician, Dr. Aronson, has succeeded in inoculating with tuberculosis a goat, an animal hitherto regarded as immune to this disease.

THE BATTLE OF THE NILE.

Nelson Said It Was a Conquest, Not a Mere Victory.

Eleven out of 13 French ships of the line had been taken or destroyed and two of the four frigates. It was not a victory; it was a conquest. So wrote Nelson regarding it. It is unnecessary here to speak of the titles and rewards which were showered on the victor. It is of more real interest to consider the true significance of the victory, the sense in which it could be said to be a conquest. In England we have too much accustomed ourselves to look on it merely as the most brilliant of sea fights, and in France it has been spoken of as a reverse indeed, but one which cannot cloud the splendor of the battle of the Pyramids. None the less, it was the conquest of Egypt; it was the isolation and virtual imprisonment of the French army.

Bonaparte understood this from the first, and after a vain and hopeless campaign in Syria—hopeless against the power which commanded the communications by sea—he made an ignominious flight, leaving Kleber to get the army out of the mess in which he had put it.

Nelson, too, understood it and wrote on Aug. 11: "The French army is in a scrape. They are up the Nile without supplies. The inhabitants will allow nothing to pass by land, nor H. N. by water. Their army is wasting with the flux, and not 1,000 men will ever return to Europe." And some months later, March 22, 1798, he wrote: "The ambassador of Bonaparte has been intercepted by Troubridge on his way to Constantinople, and among other articles of his instructions is an offer to enter on terms for his quitting Egypt with his army. This offer is what I have long expected the glorious battle of the Nile would produce, but it was my determination from that moment never, if I could help it, to permit a single Frenchman to quit Egypt. To Egypt they went with their own consent, and there they shall remain while Nelson commands the detached squadron."

A letter from Kleber to the directory, written only a month after Bonaparte had deserted his post, reveals the hopelessness which was felt. "I know," he wrote, "all the importance of the possession of Egypt. I need to say in Europe that this country was for France the fulcrum by means of which she might move at will the commercial system of every quarter of the globe. But to do this effectually a powerful lever is required, and that lever is a navy. Ours has ceased to exist. Since that period everything has changed, and peace with the Porte is, in my opinion, the only expedient."—Cornhill Magazine.

A NOBLE SURGEON.
He Saved a Patient's Life at the Peril of His Own.

A certain London hospital has on its staff of physicians one man at least whose heroism has been demonstrated.

and his corpulent pailor and taitoring gait, although he is in his prime, bear daily witness to this fact.

"It happened ten years ago," said one of the hospital clerks in telling the story, "just after the doctor became a visiting surgeon here. A woman was brought in suffering from a cancerous growth that must in the end prove fatal. The house surgeon in charge, a young man, advised an immediate operation, and he and his assistants were in the midst of it when the visiting surgeon arrived.

"A student was handling the knife and had laid bare the life destroying cause.

"Careful, careful," exclaimed the visiting surgeon as the student dexterously cut the flesh. 'If you sever that artery, she may die under the knife.'

"The warning came late, the knife had slit the artery, and the blood leaped into the wound.

"The visiting surgeon had a small cut on his forefinger. To seize the artery so as to stop the flow of blood would necessarily bring the cut in contact with the bacilli of cancer. A moment's delay, on the other hand, meant, perhaps, the woman's death.

"Without an instant's hesitation the surgeon's trained fingers had gripped the artery, which he held firmly until it could be ligatured. It prolonged the woman's life a few months," continued the narrator, "but the poison got into the doctor's system, and he lay at the point of death for weeks."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

It Was True.
Late in the evening a report spread through the train that we had a fellow passenger, a man worth $20,000,000, who had gotten on at Buffalo. I made inquiry of the porter of my car, and he replied:

"Dat's what dey say, sah, but yo' can't allus tell. He's in de next car, but I can't dun say if he's rich till mawnin'."

Next morning the porter beckoned me into the smoking compartment and said:

"Dat story was all true, sah."

"Then he's worth $20,000,000, eh?"

"All of dat, sah, an mebbe mo'."

"How did you find out?"

"From de oder po'tah, sah. De gem-an has jest gin him 10 cents, while everybody else has com down wid a quarter."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Pepper Berries.

When the berries on a spike of the pepper plant begin to turn red, the spike is cut off and the berries gathered. If left too long, until perfect ripeness is attained, there is a great loss occasioned by the berries falling off, and the quality of the product is by no means so good.

De Candolle made a very careful examination, historically and botanically, of the origin of wheat, and claims that its native home was in the plateau of Armenia, where it is still found to be growing wild.
